This year, anyone can be a sporting hero!

Whether it's planning the route, finding the pitch or encouraging people to take part – sport doesn't just happen, it needs people to make it happen. You'll become one of 40,000 Sport Makers and you'll not only get the skills, knowledge and opportunities you need to get more people playing sport, but you'll become part of the official London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic sports legacy.

Sport Makers event is at MAHDLO Mon 12th March 2012

By taking part in Sport Makers, and completing your 10 hours of Sport Making activity, you could secure tickets to the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games.

There are lots of reasons to become a Sport Maker

It is totally flexible - You choose which sports you want to be involved with and who you want to make sport happen for – friends, colleagues, neighbours or your local community.

It's extremely rewarding - You will meet other people interested in sport; find new ways of getting involved that suit you and gain access to resources that will help you organise your own activities if that's what you'd prefer. You will also develop new skills that could be useful in other areas of your life. Employers/Universities love to see outside activities on a CV so it could even help you on your career path.

You'll be part of the official London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic legacy - Inspired by the Games and their values, you will be part of an army of 40,000 Sport Makers who will help to create new opportunities for lots more people to play sport.

Guest Speaker ex World 400m indoor champion and double Olympian Daniel Caines

You get free stuff - As well as receiving official Adidas kit (Official T-shirt & Bag), once you start to make sport happen there'll be chances to win some exciting rewards, including tickets to the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games.
